

Analytical Products

The New Lines Institute offers an array of analytical products, including crisis simulations, training sessions, and custom briefings, on a wide range of topics related to foreign and national security policy. The Institute has adapted its unique institutional framework and methodology to produce forward-looking and actionable deliverables for various audiences, including universities, corporations, and non-governmental organizations. If your organization is interested in working with New Lines, please email analyticalproducts@newlinesinstitute.org.

Forecast Reports

Forecast Reports are forward-looking assessments of key topics and themes that shape the international system.

Simulations

Simulations are interactive exercises in which participants react to unfolding scenarios designed by the New Lines Institute based on potential geopolitical crises.

Examples:

- Russia-Ukraine War – Conflict Outlook and Reverberations
- Middle East/North Africa – Intersecting Crises and Supply Chains
- U.S./China/Taiwan – Economic Statecraft and Diplomacy
- Post-Conflict Reconstruction – Women’s Role in Peace and Security

Training Sessions

Training sessions are online modules that provide information and analysis based on areas of expertise of the New Lines Institute.

Examples:

- Strategic Analysis and Forecasting/Scenario Building
- Open-Source Information Gathering (OSIG)
- Energy, Climate, and Geopolitics

Custom Analytical Products

New Lines can provide custom products tailored to your research and analysis needs, including:

- Reports
- Forecasts
- Briefings

<https://newlinesinstitute.org/analytical-products/>

